Presentation of the Irish Flag

by Seth

On Tuesday 20th October, at 9:30 in the morning, two members of the Irish army took time out from their busy day to present our school with the Irish flag. It was a special presentation to mark the centenary of the 1916 Rising. From Junior Infants to 6th class, everyone was gathered in the gym for the presentation. The school band played some Irish songs and everyone stood for our national anthem. Sergeant Barry Sheehan and Private Kate Toomey presented us with the Irish flag at 10:10am. Afterwards Sergeant Barry said we could ask a few questions. After lots of questions like, "What's your favourite weapon" and, "Have you ever had to shoot someone?" I asked, "How long have you served?" Barry answered that he has served 19

The boys score was 4:12 points and the captains were Eric and Kai. They all played great and we are very proud of both teams. Well done!!!

Movie Review!

SPECTRE

Daniel Craig is at his best in the all new 007 movie! When 007 finds a ring with a seven tentacled octopus (wait what?!) it sends him on a rogue mission. Armed with a cool car, which he stole and crashed into a lake after a 2 minute car chase, his trusty watch and some help from his friends, Bond follows the trail to Austria, where he meets a super moany woman who can't go throw a scene without crying! Actors these days! Anyway, there is a super tough henchman who kills a guy in front of 100 people, and...duh, duh, duh...if I tell you anymore it pretty much spoils the movie! I'd only give this movie ½ and that's being generous! Oh and the skull guy in the poster was barely in the movie. My co-editors, however, disagree with me and would give it 5/5!

years and Kate has served a year that day. After lots of clapping and cheering... we all returned to our classroom. It had been a special morning.
